BETWEEN TWO EMPIRESAhmet Agaoglu and the New TurkeyA. Holly Shissler

"... a very interesting book ... It manages to place the life story of Ahmet Agaoglu in the Imperial twilight of the Russians and Ottomans ... The attempt to trace the intellectual influences Agaoglu underwent ... in the Caucasus and then in St. Petersburg and Paris is particularly successful."

—Erik J Zürcher,
University of Leiden

World-shaking revolutions in Russia in 1905 and 1917, in Ottoman

Turkey in 1908, World War I, the defeat of the Central Powers and triumph of the Entente, the Turkish War of Independence and the establishment of the new Turkish nation state under Atatürk, and the establishment of Azerbaijan: These events form the backdrop to Ahmet Agaoglu's life, which spanned the momentous period from 1869-1939. This biography of this major player is a striking entry point through which these turbulent times are brought sharply into relief.

The Concept of the Foreign

An Interdisciplinary Dialogue

Edited and Introduced by Rebecca Saunders

The idea of collecting a number of essays from specialists in various disciplines addressing the question of the foreign is a highly original one, and has resulted in an impressively varied and wide-ranging volume. . . . Many attempts at interdisciplinary collections fail to achieve this kind of cohesiveness combined with variety, and the editor is to be congratulated on her successful meeting of this challenge. . . . The book is genuinely original and genuinely interdisciplinary. —Derek Attridge, The University of York, UK

The Concept of the Foreign investigates the diverse and consequential uses of the concept of the foreign—a formidable and hitherto untheorized force in everyday discourse and practice. This highly original work—whose experimental nature moves beyond traditional academic bounds—undertakes to theorize the meanings, deployments, and consequences of “foreignness”, a term largely overlooked by academic debates. Innovative in format, the book comprises an introductory theoretical dialogue and seven essays, each authored by a scholar from a different discipline—anthropology, literary theory, psychology, philosophy, social work, history, and women’s studies—who investigate how his/her disciplines engage and define the concept of the foreign. Drawing out literal and metaphorical meanings of “foreignness,” this wide-ranging volume offers much to scholars of postcolonial, gender, and cultural studies seeking new approaches to the study of alterity.

Antinomies of Modernity

Essays on Race,
Orient, Nation

VASANT KAIWAR &
SUCHETA MAZUMDAR,

EDITORS 368 pages, paper $21.95

Antinomies of Modernity asserts that concepts of race, Orient, and nation have been crucial to efforts across the world to create a sense of place, belonging, and solidarity in the midst of the radical discontinuities wrought by global capitalism.

Drawing on archival sources and fieldwork, the contributors explore aspects of modernity within societies of South Asia, the Middle East, and Africa, tracking the dynamic ways that race, Orient, and nation have been reworked and used over time and in particular geographic locations.

Contributors. Neville Alexander, Andrew Barnes, Vasant Kaiwar, Sucheta Mazumdar, Mino Moallem, Mohamad Tavakoli-Targhi, A. R. Venkatachalapathy, Michael O. West

“Antinomies of Modernity is a fundamental contribution to scholarship decentering Eurocentric epistemic perspectives. Vasant Kaiwar and Sucheta Mazumdar have collected impressive essays, including their own articles and introduction, showing the epistemic potential of ‘antinomies of modernity’ in South Asia, the Middle East, and Africa. This collection makes a signal contribution toward a paradigm showing us the way beyond postmodernism and postcolonialism.”—Walter D. Mignolo, Duke University
